

Abby LoManto

Liberty Wildlife Medical Information Boxes

After numerous school field trips to Liberty Wildlife, a nonprofit center dedicated to rescuing and rehabilitating animals, Abby grew to admire the staff's passion and commitment to animal rehabilitation. For her Gold Award project, Abby sought out the needs of the team at Liberty Wildlife so they could focus on helping animals impacted by urbanization. To assist the team, Abby fulfilled the item at the top of their wish list by creating weather-safe storage boxes for staff to store medical records, providing more time for the staff to take care of animals in need. Abby stepped out of her comfort zone to explore a new skill of woodworking to earn the Gold Award honor. A Girl Scout of 10 years, Abby plans to go to Arizona State University to earn her degree in Education and one day become a high school teacher.
