

Bayli Haynes

Coyote Relief Space

Bayli Haynes got a Gold Award for the creation of the Coyote Relief Space, a mental health resource aimed at supporting her high school peers. After seeing many of her friends struggle with mental health challenges, Bayli identified the need for a designated area where students could seek comfort and support. The Coyote Relief Space, located in the counseling office at Centennial High School, offers a quiet retreat for students, complete with coping tools, fidget toys, and access to a social worker. Additionally, Bayli provided teachers and staff with information to direct students to the space when necessary. Her project had a significant impact, with students utilizing the space and providing positive feedback through QR code questionnaires. Throughout her Gold Award journey, Bayli learned about the importance of providing peers with the proper tools and resources to help them overcome mental health struggles. A dedicated Girl Scout for 13 years, Bayli plans to attend Pima Medical Institute after high school to become a sterile processing technician.
